This is what 2027 tastes like: Discover culinary trends at Nordstil

Frankfurt am Main, 19 November 2026. From 9 to 11 January 2027, Hamburg will become a melting pot for new culinary ideas: in its Kitchen & Gourmet product section, Nordstil will showcase unique ingredients, artisanal products and distinctive ranges. The two-day GenussGipfel on 10 and 11 January will once again showcase international fine foods, delicacies and culinary specialities.

Origin, craftsmanship and surprising twists: the 2027 gourmet year begins in Hamburg, combining regionality, transparency and down-to-earth authenticity with modern, unusual flavour combinations that know no bounds in terms of shape, colour and sensory experience. Exhibitors in Hall B1 will demonstrate how these trends can be showcased to best effect at the point of sale through their products.

Kalamanski (B1.EG, C62) demonstrates how a place of origin can inspire a product idea: the company processes the Philippine calamansi fruit into a speciality for aperitifs, cocktails or non-alcoholic refreshments. 28lots (B1.EG, A42) also has its own story of origin: this Viennese manufacturer produces handmade chocolate and spreads. Its name is a nod to a historic Viennese unit of weight for chocolate.

In 2027, the international range of products at the GenussGipfel will be enriched for the first time by the Italian Chamber of Commerce for Germany (B1.EG, E51-57). At their stand, Fattoria di Poggiopiano presents organic wines and extra virgin olive oil, whilst Azienda Agricola Montigiani will be introducing a range of products including a gin made with olive oil. L'Unica del Mugello showcases pestos, sauces, fruit nectars and chestnut flour.

Pour Happiness (B1.EG, E29) brings single-variety Arbosana olive oil from Andalusia to Hamburg – straight from a Spanish family farm. Antonio Viani Importe (B1.EG, E99) complements the culinary selection with high-quality kitchen accessories and gift sets. Also on display is 1001 Gewürze (B1.EG, E26), a Hamburg-based producer that grinds its spices in small batches and fills them by hand.

Nordstil Winter will take place from 9 to 11 January 2027.
The GenussGipfel will take place on 10 and 11 January 2027.

Nordstil Summer will take place from 24 to 26 July 2027.
